ARCADIS AGREES TO SELL EUROCONSULT TO MOTT MACDONALD

Arnhem, the Netherlands March 8, 2007 ARCADIS (NASDAQ: ARCAF, EURONEXT: ARCAD), the international consultancy and engineering company has announced today that it has agreed to sell its subsidiary ARCADIS Euroconsult to Mott MacDonald for an undisclosed amount. Last year, Euroconsult produced gross revenues of 33 million with about 125 people. The deal is expected to be closed towards the end of March 2007 and will not result in a book gain/loss.

The reason for the sale is that Euroconsult no longer fits into the ARCADIS strategy. Euroconsult works primarily on donor-financed projects in developing countries and has a strong track record in meeting global development aid needs. The company offers expertise in irrigation, water and rural land development and under the brand name BMB also provides institutional development services for the public, private and social sector.

Mott MacDonald is a management, engineering and development consultancy, serving the public and private sectors world-wide. It delivers solutions that add value to many areas of everyday life from transport, energy, building, water and the environment to health and education, industry and communications. Mott MacDonald is an employee-owned company with a turnover of $1.2 billion and 10,000 staff. It considers the purchase of Euroconsult a strengthening of its international development activities.

We believe that this step is good for ARCADIS as it fits in our goal of having focus in our business. We concentrate our efforts on building strong home market positions, while Euroconsult/BMB focuses on donor funded projects in developing countries. This step is also good for Euroconsult, as it now joins an organization where it is considered a strategic asset, said Michiel Jaski, member of the Executive Board of ARCADIS.

ARCADIS is an international company providing consultancy, engineering and management services in infrastructure, environment and facilities, to enhance mobility, sustainability and quality of life. ARCADIS develops, designs, implements, maintains and operates projects for companies and governments. With more than 11,000 employees and $1.5 billion in gross revenue, the company has an extensive international network that is supported by strong local market positions.
