Textron Launches Offering of Convertible Senior Notes and Common Stock

PROVIDENCE, R.I. April 28, 2009 Textron Inc. (NYSE: TXT - News) today announced a public offering of convertible senior notes and common stock.

Textron intends to offer, subject to market and other conditions, $300,000,000 principal amount of convertible senior notes due May 1, 2013 in an underwritten registered public offering. In connection with this offering, Textron intends to grant the underwriters a 30-day option to purchase up to an additional $45 million principal amount of convertible senior notes. The convertible senior notes will be convertible, under certain circumstances, into cash, shares of Textron common stock, or a combination of cash and shares, at the option of Textron. The offering price, interest rate, conversion price and other terms of the convertible senior notes will be determined by Textron and the underwriters.

Textron also intends to offer concurrently, subject to market and other conditions, 19,000,000 shares of common stock in an underwritten registered public offering. In connection with this offering, Textron intends to grant the underwriters a 30-day option to purchase an additional 2,850,000 shares of common stock.

The closing of each offering is not contingent on the closing of the other.

In connection with the offering of the convertible senior notes, Textron plans to enter into convertible note hedge and warrant transactions with one or more of the underwriters and/or their affiliates. The convertible note hedge transactions are intended to reduce the potential dilution to Textron's common stock upon conversion of the convertible senior notes. However, if the market price per share of Textron's common stock exceeds the strike price under the warrant transactions when they are exercised, there would be dilution from conversion of the convertible senior notes to the extent that the then market price per share of Textron's common stock exceeds the strike price of the warrants.

Textron intends to use a portion of the net proceeds from the common stock offering, together with the proceeds of the warrant transactions, to pay the cost of the bond hedge transactions entered into in connection with the offering of the convertible senior notes. The remaining proceeds from the common stock offering, together with the net proceeds from the convertible senior notes offering, will be used to increase Textron's liquidity and for general corporate purposes, including the repayment of consolidated debt.

In connection with establishing their initial hedge of the convertible note hedge and warrant transactions, Textron expects that the counterparties, or their respective affiliates, may enter into various exchange traded and over-the-counter derivative transactions with respect to Textron's after, the pricing of the convertible senior notes. These activities could have the effect of increasing or preventing a decline in the price of Textron's common stock concurrently with or shortly following the pricing of the convertible senior notes. In addition, the counterparties, or their respective affiliates, may modify or unwind their hedge positions by entering into or unwinding various derivative transactions with respect to Textron's common stock and/or purchasing or selling Textron's common stock in privately negotiated and/or open-market transactions following the pricing of the convertible notes and prior to maturity of the convertible senior notes (and are likely to do so during any settlement period related to the conversion of the convertible senior notes).

Goldman, Sachs & Co. and J.P. Morgan Securities Inc. are acting as joint book-running managers for the offerings.

Textron has filed a registration statement (including a prospectus and related preliminary prospectus supplements for each of the common stock and convertible senior notes offerings) with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (SEC) for the offerings to which this communication relates. Before you invest, you should read the applicable preliminary prospectus supplement and the accompanying prospectus for more complete information about Textron and these offerings.
