Item 5.03 Amendments to Articles of Incorporation or Bylaws; Change in Fiscal Year.

On November 7, 2007, the Board of Directors of Sterling Construction Company, Inc. (the "Company") on the recommendation of its Corporate Governance & Nominating Committee, amended Section 1 of Article III of the Company's by-laws to change the vote requirement for the election of directors.

Section 1, as amended, provides that to be elected a director at a stockholders' meeting, the director must receive a majority of the votes cast for him or her. A majority of the votes cast is defined to mean that the number of shares voted for a director exceeds the number of shares voted against that director. However, if the number of nominees for director exceeds the number of directors to be elected, the directors will be elected by the vote of a plurality of the votes cast at the meeting.

Under the by-laws, directors hold office until the expiration of the term for which they were elected and until their successors are elected and qualified (or until a director's earlier death, resignation or removal). An incumbent director-nominee who is not re-elected and for whom a successor is not elected at a stockholders' meeting is required to offer to tender his or her resignation to the Board of Directors. The Corporate Governance & Nominating Committee is required to make a recommendation to the Board of Directors on whether to accept or reject the offer of resignation, or whether other action should be taken. The Board of Directors will then act on the Committee's recommendation.

Before the amendment, Section 1 only required a plurality vote for the election of directors, whether or not there were more nominees than director positions to be filled. When the number of nominees for election was equal to the number of directors to be elected, any nominee who received at least one vote was elected.

Section 1, as amended, became effective upon its adoption by the Board and will first be implemented in connection with the election of directors at the Company's next Annual Meeting of Stockholders. A copy of Section 1, as amended, is attached as an exhibit to this Form 8-K, and the foregoing description is qualified in its entirety by that exhibit.
