Talking Points

- Thank you for meeting with us today. (provide your own background – title, role, years at SMSC) We are here to share information about our companies coming together and to hear from you. We will answer questions as best we can and promise to keep the lines of communication open.
 - As you know SMSC and Conexant Systems, Inc. have announced that SMSC will purchase all outstanding shares of Conexant in a stock and cash transaction. This has been approved by both Boards of Directors.
 - We expect the deal to actually close in the first half of calendar 2011. It is important to emphasize that until we close, we will be operating as separate companies.
 - Separate means that we will go about our business as usual until the close and not share information concerning designs, pricing, customers etc. It also means that Conexant employees will continue with their same pay, benefits and roles during this regulatory review period.

- SMSC and Conexant will work closely together to gather regulatory approvals in anticipation of closing the transaction. During this time, we will better understand one another and make decisions about exactly how the company will be organized after the deal closes.
- So, some of the questions that you naturally have will not be answered immediately. Please know that I empathize with the fact that you would like to know about matters that concern your employment and career.
- We are committed to transparent communication and including key stakeholders in the decision making process. A joint integration team is being formed and more information will become available as plans begin to take shape.
 - Let's go over some of the particulars of the deal.
 - Christine King will remain the president of SMSC and Kris Sennesael will remain the CFO.
 - Scott Mercer will not continue in an executive capacity with the combined company.
- We are very pleased that Sailesh Chittipeddi, currently Conexant President and Chief Operating Officer, will join SMSC upon close of the acquisition as Executive Vice President, reporting to Christine King. Mr. Chittipeddi's responsibilities will include oversight of all marketing and engineering functions for SMSC.
 - We will have an even stronger analog/mixed R&D team with over 900 talented engineers globally.
- SMSC is especially excited about Conexant's portfolio of products which will enable us to target a more expansive set of computing, connectivity, industrial and automotive product solutions, which focus on the connectivity ecosystem. In addition, we believe the synergies of this deal will drive economies of scale and scope. We already have established relationships at the same fabrication subcontractor – TSMC and we share many of the same test subcontractors. Together we will be more competitive.
- We expect the deal to be a winning one for employees of both companies as we all become stronger players with more resources at our disposal.
 - There are not any plans presently to close any Conexant locations or to change SMSC's headquarters.
 - Once the deal closes all Conexant brands will become part of the SMSC brand portfolio
 - FAQs will be provided by the Conexant communications team
 - I would like to review a few slides on SMSC to help familiarize you with our company
