State below in reasonable detail why Forms 10-K, 20-F, 11-K, 10-Q, 10-D, N-SAR, N-CSR, or the transition report or portion thereof, could not be filed within the prescribed time period.

Hungarian Telephone and Cable Corp. (the "Company") is unable to file its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarterly period ended March 31, 2007 by May 10, 2007, without unreasonable effort and expense due to recent changes in both executive management and in its independent registered public accounting firm. On April 27, 2007 the Company's Board of Directors elected a new chief executive officer and a new chief financial officer. On April 27, 2007, the Audit Committee of the Company's Board of Directors appointed a new independent registered public accounting firm to audit the Company's 2007 financial statements and its internal control over financial reporting. The Company's management and its new public accounting firm need some additional time, given their recent appointments, to complete their work (a review in the case of the new public accounting firm) in order for the Company to be able to file its report. The Company expects to file its Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q on, or before, May 15, 2007.

Part IV(3) Explanation

There has not been a significant change in the Company's Income from Operations for the first quarter 2007 as compared to the first quarter 2006. The Company expects, however, to report a significant increase in its net loss for the first quarter 2007 as compared to the first quarter 2006, primarily due to a non-cash charge due to changes in the unrealized fair value of certain hedges entered into in connection with the Invitel acquisition. The Company estimates that the non-cash charge will be in the range of $44 million.

The Company engages in foreign currency and interest rate hedging activities to reduce the risk that changes in exchange rates and interest rates will adversely affect the eventual net cash flows resulting from its debt obligations. The Company does not expect to enter into financial instruments for trading or speculative purposes. Hedge contracts reduce the exposure to fluctuations in exchange rate and interest rate movements because the gains and losses associated with foreign currency balances and the interest rates payable by the Company are generally offset with gains and losses of the hedge contracts.

In January 2007 the Company entered into six foreign currency and interest rate hedges in order to reduce the exposure to the value of the Hungarian currency and the level of interest rates that would arise upon the completion of the acquisition of Invitel. The Company hedged (i) the Floating Rate Senior Notes that were issued by one its subsidiaries, in part, to finance the Invitel transaction and (ii) the Invitel Debt that the Company assumed upon closing. These items are non-cash items until they either mature or are unwound.

To limit the variability of interest rates on existing and projected debt, the Company entered into interest rate swap agreements to manage fluctuations in cash flows resulting from interest rate risk. Under the terms of the interest rate swaps, the Company receives variable interest rate payments from the hedging counterparty and makes fixed interest rate payments, thereby creating the equivalent of fixed rate debt.

To limit the impact of fluctuations between the Company's Hungarian subsidiaries' functional currency, the Hungarian forint, and the Euro, the Company has entered into currency swap agreements and forward agreements, to receive Euros and pay forints, thereby creating the equivalent of forint debt obligations.

The objective of these contracts is to neutralize the impact of exchange rate and interest rate movements on our cash flows. However, given the inherent limitations of forecasting and the anticipatory nature of the exposures intended to be hedged, there can be no assurance that such programs will offset more than a portion of the adverse financial impact resulting from unfavorable movements in either interest or foreign exchange rates. In addition, the timing of the accounting for recognition of gains and losses related to mark-to-market instruments for any given period may not coincide with the timing of gains and losses related to the underlying economic exposures and, therefore, may adversely affect our operating results and financial position.
