2. Management Policy and Results

MANAGEMENT POLICY

(1). BASIC POLICY OF MANAGEMENT

Our Vision: To create a world safe for exchanging digital information.

Our Mission: We ensure digital operational continuity against unpredictable threats.

The environment in which many companies and individuals are connected globally through the Internet is being realized. The advanced information society, which evolves day by day, brings about changes in business forms and personal lifestyles around the world and has much impact on the whole society. When we think about the changes of our life from the viewpoint of information, the convenience brought about by worldwide networking cannot be overestimated. Nonuniform products that restricted digital information exchange in the past gradually disappeared and as a consequence, improvement in compatibility and convenience is realized. At the same time, with the disappearance of diversity, a vulnerable aspect of the whole net work system to attacks from computer viruses is acknowledged as a problem.

Today the threats on the network such as computer viruses, spywares and junk e-mails are not of a nature that can be predicted beforehand and treated with all possible measures. We are protecting each company and individual from the threats on the network by providing products and services strongly support a series of operations which should be experienced in the event of an attack such as preventive measures, risk management, prevention of mass infection, timely delivery of virus pattern files, minimization of damage and system restoration. In addition to this, we would like to contribute to the further development of the information society by improving the safety of the whole network system.

(2). BASIC POLICY OF PROFIT SHARING

We intend to continue to return profits to shareholders based on the net profit on the consolidated basis while striving to enhance financial strength and secure inner reserve in order to deal with significantly changing business environment and maintain competitive edge against competitors. As our basic policy about dividend, we plan to pay a year-end dividend on the basis of the dividend ratio of 30%.

(3). VIEWS AND POLICIES FOR INVESTMENT UNIT

While we recognize that securing liquidity of our shares is an important issue, we consider the current liquidity is at a satisfactory level. With that background, we conclude that reducing investment unit which will incur considerable expense is not necessarily profitable to all shareholders.

We intend to review in the future the investment unit as needed taking into consideration the shareholders' interest and influences to the liquidity of our shares.

(4). TARGET MANAGEMENT INDEX

According to a research institute, the anti-virus industry, which we belongs to, is estimated to expand at an annual growth rate of around 20% from 2003 to 2004 and is also expected two-digit annual growth rate for a medium-term forecast (August 2004, IDC, USA). Making the growth rate of our consolidated net sales to exceed the industry average without fail is an important index for us weather we can grow up to a leading company which can contribute to customers in the global market as well as Japanese market or not.

In view of the fact that we have relatively small amount of investment in physical fixed assets such as manufacturing equipment and have no significant time-lag between accounting profit and loss and cash flow as a characteristics of software companies, have uncertainty about the long-term forecast of the whole industry which, including our company, has a relatively short history, we set target as operating income margin rate of 35 - 40% at this time.

(5). ISSUES TO DEAL WITH

In the anti-virus industry which we belongs to, there are two competitors having higher market share than ours in the U.S. These companies have strong brand powers and sales forces especially in foreign countries because they have longer histories in the industry. They are also developing businesses supported by management resources larger than ours including work forces and financial strengths. In such situation, we would like to aim for further growth by developing original solutions which respond to the evolution of viruses faster than the competitors with concentrated our management resources, by improving our superiority in products and services with additional improvements in the specifications and performance of our products from the view point of customers, and by strengthening customers' loyalty with our marketing development which is conscious of customer attribute characterized by the difference in purchasing behavior.

We, specializing in the antivirus area, have formed several alliances with dominant vendors in areas other than antivirus solutions. During this quarter, we announced affiliation with the U.S. Cisco Systems, the world's biggest network equipment vendor. In consequence of the affiliation, we have now a plan to put our antivirus solutions on the market as internal functions of Cisco's routers, switches and security appliance products. We consider that this sort of affiliation plays an important role in our sales strategy since we can expect effects of combination of products which are competitive in the respective area and of complementation of each other's sales channel.

(6). CORPORATE GOVERNANCE

Our management system is administering business operations under the recognition that quickly corresponding to changes in the environment of our company group and securing transparency and soundness of management as well as keeping reliability of disclosures are of prime importance.

The Board of Directors is composed of four directors and holding the Board meetings according to circumstances so that it can quickly make decisions. One of the four directors is appointed from outside of our company to enhance supervisory function for appropriate operation of the Board.

An executive is appointed for each business unit to take responsibility for executing respective operation so that our management policy decided by the Board of Directors is reflected in actual operation in the business area extending into over 20 countries in the world.

We have appointed four corporate auditors all from outside of our company so that the Board of Auditors can audit without bias the operation of the Board of Directors and business execution by the directors. The Board of Auditors has formulated a guideline for the relationship with the external auditor in order to ensure independence of the external auditor which takes charge of audit of our consolidated financial statements. The guideline prohibits commissioning the external auditor any affair which may impair independence of the said auditor. The guideline has also established a system in which the Board of Auditors is to make advance approval according to the guideline for audit and non-audit services we receive from the said auditor.

As for the internal control functions of our whole group, we have established an effective internal control functions by considering our business model and the business environment surrounding our group. We have also appointed a full-time person for supervision at corporate affairs department and are developing this system in communication with the external auditor and legal advisors as well as the board of corporate auditors and the board of directors. For this period we have implemented our Code of Conduct focusing on ethical behavior, compliance with laws and full and fair disclosure and clarified internal reporting channel and executed a survey of business process by physical inspections at major department both domestically and abroad. We will continually aim to establish internal control in the direction of strengthening our unique and global business operation which is not restricted by time, space and culture, and will also respond to the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 which is applicable to us because we are listed on the Nasdaq exchange.

[Overview of Current Business Performance]

Looking at the economical conditions of this period, although business sentiment showed prudence in some part due to cause of concern about skyrocketing crude oil prices, Japanese economy has steadily recovered with brisk consumer spending. In foreign countries, business conditions have remained strong primarily in U.S and Asian countries and seem to continue a recovery trend. We think capital investment will continue to increase thanks to the improvement of company earnings.

Edgar Filing: TREND MICRO INC - Form 6-K

In the network security industry the demand for network security products have developed steadily because computer viruses such as MYDOOM , BAGLE and NETSKY were prevalent globally and the total number of virus damage reports was up to 65,531, far larger than last year (47,607 reports).

Damages from a new type of computer viruses which target the vulnerabilities (security holes) in operating systems (OSs) and lead to infection just one connects to the Internet become popular. Thus we started the sales of Network Virus Wall series as a solution to these damages.

Further we have attempted to expand the number of users using our products through alliance with new resellers in addition to the existing sales network for personal products, while we have strengthened our product lineup for corporate products by launching products which can be introduced and managed easily targeting at medium and small companies which are in short of persons in charge of network management.

It is also expected that new devices or new communication tools which have not been targets for attack in the past may be targets for virus attack, so we started providing Trend Micro Mobile Security TM as a new solution for mobile devices and also started supplying our products for Hotmail which is an e-mail service provided by Microsoft Corporation, U.S.A.

As a result, the net sales for this period came to 62,049 million yen (29% increase from the previous period), the consolidated operating income 26,078 million yen (72% increase from the previous period) and the consolidated net income for this period 15,875 million yen (72% increase from the previous period).

In Japan the sales of the Virus Buster series including Virus Buster 2005 , released in the fourth quarter as personal product, were significantly increased. We think this result is due to the following factors; the number of virus damage reports was reached to the worst level in the past, the number of broadband users was steadily increased, our support system, which we had been improved and expanded, gained support from customers.

The introduction of anti-virus products also become widespread among medium and small companies as well as large companies in response to a Personal Information Protection Act, which will be fully enforced from April 2005, and the sales of corporate products were strong. As a result, the net sales for this period came to 25,443 million yen (27% increase from the previous period).

In the North American region the positive attitude toward investment of security products was beginning to be seen due to some changes in the attitude toward capital investment which had been weak until the previous period. As the result of the reinforcement measures of sales channels to expand the sales for medium and small companies became evident, the net sales on a local currency basis was significantly increased compared to the previous period. But the net sales for this period came to 11,891 million yen (23% increase from the previous period) due to the effect of currency exchange.

In Europe thanks to the launch of new products and the expansion of number of affiliated resellers as well as strong demand, the net sales in U.K., Italy and Germany were increased and the sales for medium and small companies were especially increased. The sales in the North Europe region such as Norway and Sweden and the South Europe region like Spain were significantly increased with the improvement and expansion of sales channels. The net sales for this period in these regions came to 16,418 million yen (35% increase from the previous period).

At Asia and Pacific region and Latin America region the sales in Mexico, Taiwan, China and Australia were expanded and the net sales for two regions came to 6,305 million yen (31% increase from the previous period) and 1,992 million yen (37% increase from the previous period), respectively.

(2). Projection for the First Quarter of the fiscal year 2005 (from January 1, 2005 to March 31)

The business environment tends to drastically change over a short term. Consequently, it is difficult to calculate highly reliable values about the projection for the whole financial year. Instead, we make it a rule to announce a business forecast for the coming quarter term at the time of reporting quarterly results.

In the event forecast numbers are revised by more than 10% for net sales or 30% for operating income and net income from the last forecast, we will announce revision of the earnings forecast.

Business Forecast for the First Quarter of FY2005 (January 1 2005 – March 31 2005)

Consolidated Net Sales	16,300 million yen
Consolidated Operating income	6,200 million yen
Consolidated Current Net income	3,800 million yen

In development of the business forecasts the main assumed exchange rates are as follows.

[Overview of Cash Flow]

For the cash flows from operating activity for this period, income was increased 9,234 million yen compared with the previous period and the balance was ended with a surplus of 24,900 million yen. This increase in income is mainly due to increases in net income and deferred revenue, etc.

For the cash flows from investing activity, expenditure was increased 6,576 million yen compared with the previous period and the balance was ended with a deficit of 16,030 million yen. This increase in expenditure is mainly due to increase in payments for purchases of marketable securities and security investments, etc.

For the cash flows from financing activity, expenditure was decreased 3,561 million yen compared with the previous period and the balance was ended with a deficit of 3,250 million yen. This decrease in expenditure is mainly due to substantial increase in income from issuance of common stock pursuant to exercise of stock purchase warrants and stock acquisition rights, etc.

Taking these increase and decrease and the effect of exchange rate changes on cash and cash equivalents into account, the cash and cash equivalents at end of this period was 52,908 million yen and was increased 6,189 million yen compared with the previous period.

NOTES TO CONSOLIDATED FINANCIAL INFORMATION

1. Accounting Principles, Accounting Procedures and Methods for Presenting Consolidated Financial Statements

The accompanying consolidated financial statements are prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ( U.S. GAAP ), including Accounting Principles Board Opinion ( APB ), Statement of Financial Accounting Standards ( FAS ), Emerging Issues Task Force Consensus ( EITF ) and the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants Statement of Position ( SOP ). The Company listed on the NASDAQ in July 1999, and prepares its consolidated financial statements pursuant to the terminology, forms and preparation methods required in order to issue American Depositary Shares, which are registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. The Company maintains their books and records in conformity with accounting principles and practices generally accepted in Japan ( Japan GAAP ), and its foreign subsidiaries in conformity with those in the respective countries of their domicile. The consolidated financial statements presented herein have been prepared in a manner and reflect certain adjustments that are necessary to conform them with U.S. GAAP.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

The significant differences between accounting principles, accounting procedures and methods of presentation which are adopted by the Company and its subsidiaries (U.S. GAAP) and those in Japan (Japan GAAP) are as follows. However, the effect on income before income tax caused by the GAAP differences indicated below, are immaterial.

(1) Pension Accounting

The Company and subsidiaries account for the retirement benefit plan in accordance with FAS No. 87 Employers Accounting for Pensions . The transitional difference, when FAS No. 87 is first applied, shall be amortized on a straight-line basis over the average remaining service period. However, in our non-consolidated financial statements, the transitional difference was all charged to income in the first year of application of local pension accounting, in accordance with Japan GAAP.

(2) Disclosure of the loss on disposal of fixed assets

Under Japan GAAP, the loss on disposal of fixed assets is disclosed in unusual profit and loss . We have disclosed this amount in Other incomes (expenses) in our consolidated statement of income.

(3) Common stock issue costs

Edgar Filing: TREND MICRO INC - Form 6-K

Revenue recognition

The Company's revenue is derived primarily from product revenue, which includes software product license and post-contract customer support services. Other revenue is composed of hardware revenue, royalty revenue and supplementary service revenue. Royalty revenue is comprised of fees from Application service providers and Internet service providers and supplementary services are comprised of fees from services based on Premium support program and Service level agreement. Product revenue includes the type of limited sales of our products to other companies for inclusion in their products.

The Company licenses its software products under perpetual licenses. The Company sells its products and services via its direct sales force and through domestic and foreign intermediaries.

The Company applies the provisions of SOP 97-2, Software Revenue Recognition, as amended by SOP 98-9 Modification of SOP 97-2, Software Revenue Recognition, With Respect to Certain Transactions to all transactions involving the sale of software products and hardware transactions where software is not incidental. For hardware transactions where software is not incidental, the Company does not bifurcate the fee and apply separate accounting guidance to the hardware and software elements.

Table of Contents

Revenue from the Company's software product license and hardware where software is not incidental is recognized when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, the product has been delivered, the fee is fixed and determinable, and collection of the resulting receivable, net of allowances for doubtful accounts and sales returns, is reasonably assured. Post-contract customer support services revenue which includes virus pattern updates, unspecified product version updates, telephone and online technical support and free use of our 24-hour service centers and supplementary services revenue are deferred and recognized ratably over the service period. The Company allocates revenue to post-contract customer support services based on the fair value of the post-contract customer support services, which are determined based on separate sales of renewals to customers. Royalty revenue is recognized as earned unless collection of the related receivables is not assured in which case, it is recognized upon receipt of cash.

For all sales, the Company uses either a binding purchase order or signed license agreement as evidence of an arrangement. Sales through our intermediaries are evidenced by a master agreement governing the relationship together with binding purchase orders on a transaction-by-transaction basis.

At the time of the transaction, the Company assesses whether the fee associated with our revenue transactions is fixed and determinable and whether or not collection is reasonably assured. The Company assesses whether the fee is fixed and determinable based on the payment terms associated with the transaction. If a significant portion of a fee is due after our normal payment terms, which are 30 to 90 days from the invoice date, the Company accounts for the fee as not being fixed and determinable. In these cases, the Company recognizes revenue as the fees become due. The Company assesses collection based on a number of factors, including past transaction history with the customer and the credit-worthiness of the customer. The Company does not request collateral from our customers. If the Company determines that collection of a fee is not reasonably assured, the Company defers the fee and recognizes revenue at the time collection becomes reasonably assured, which is generally upon receipt of cash.

The Company recognizes revenue from sales to intermediaries when products have been delivered to the intermediary. The Company primarily sells retail packages through intermediaries. After sale of a retail package, the Company may approve certain returns from intermediaries or end-users; therefore, the Company makes an estimate of returns from intermediaries or end-users based on its historical experience. The provision for estimated returns is recorded as a reduction to revenue at the time of the sale.

Cash and cash equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include cash on hand, cash on deposit with banks and all highly liquid investments, with original maturities of three months or less, that are readily convertible to known amounts of cash and are so near maturity that they present insignificant risk of changes in value because of changes in interest rates.

Marketable securities and Security investments

Marketable securities and security investments consist of debt and equity securities. Debt and equity securities designated as available-for-sale are carried at fair value with unrealized gains or losses included in accumulated other comprehensive income (loss), net of applicable taxes. Debt securities designated as held-to-maturity are carried at amortized cost. Individual securities classified as either available-for-sale or held-to-maturity are reduced to net realizable value for other than temporary declines in market value. Realized gains and losses, which are determined on the average cost method, are reflected in income. The Company accounts for equity securities of non-public entity under cost method.

Inventories

Finished products and raw materials are valued at the lower of weighted average cost or net realizable value. Work in process is stated at accumulated production costs.

Property and equipment

Property and equipment are stated at cost. Major renewals and improvements are capitalized; minor replacements, maintenance and repairs are charged to current operations. Depreciation of property and equipment is computed on the declining-balance method for the parent company and on the straight-line method for foreign subsidiaries at rates based on estimated useful lives of the assets according to general class, type of construction and use. Estimated useful lives range from 3 to 5 years for office furniture and equipment, and from 4 to 24 for other properties.

Intangible assets

Intangible assets, which mainly consist of software development costs and purchased software, are amortized on a straight-line basis over the estimated economic lives of the products, generally over twelve-month period for software development costs and a five-year period for purchased software and other intangibles.

Impairment of long-lived assets

The Company evaluates long-lived assets and definite lived intangible assets to be held and used whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable. Determination of recoverability is based on the sum of expected future cash flows (undiscounted and without interest charges) from the use and eventual disposition of the asset. If the fair value is less than the carrying amount of the asset, an impairment loss is recognized, based on the fair value of the asset.

Research and development costs and software development costs

All costs relating to research and development, to establish the technological feasibility of software products, are expensed as incurred. Under the Company's software development process, technological feasibility is established on completing all substantial testing for the original English language version of the software. Local language versions of software, such as Japanese or Chinese, are produced from the English language version, by adding Japanese language or Chinese language related functions. Production costs for such local language versions of software product masters, incurred subsequent to the availability of original English language version software, are capitalized. Production costs of the local language software product masters, which include direct labor and overhead costs, are amortized to cost of sales using the straight-line method over the current estimated economic lives of the products, generally up to twelve months.

Management considers the Company's capitalized software development costs to be fully recoverable from future product sales. Management estimates are based upon supporting facts and circumstances, and may be significantly impacted based upon subsequent changes in business conditions.

Advertising costs

Advertising costs are expensed as incurred.

Stock-based compensation

The Company accounts for its stock-based incentive awards in accordance with the intrinsic value method as per APB No. 25, Accounting for Stock Issued to Employees. The Company complies with the disclosure provisions of FAS No. 123, Accounting for Stock-Based Compensation, as amended by FAS No. 148.

Income taxes

The current provision for income taxes is computed based on the pretax income included in the consolidated statement of income. The asset and liability approach is used to recognize deferred tax assets and liabilities for the expected future tax consequences of temporary differences between the carrying amounts and the tax bases of assets and liabilities. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates in effect for the year in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. The effect on deferred assets (including deferred tax assets and liabilities on net unrealized gain or loss on debt and equity securities) of a change in tax rates is recognized in income in the period that includes the enactment date. Valuation allowances are recorded to reduce deferred tax assets when it is more likely than not that a tax benefit will not be realized.

Net income per share

Basic net income per share is computed based on the average number of shares of common stock outstanding for the period. Diluted net income per share assumes the dilution that could occur if securities or other contracts to issue common stock were exercised or converted into common stock, or resulted in the issuance of common stock. Net income per share is appropriately adjusted for any stock splits or free distributions of common stock.

Free distribution of common stock

On occasion, the Company made a free distribution of common stock to its shareholders which was accounted for either by a transfer of the applicable par value from additional paid-in capital to the common stock account or with no entry if free shares were distributed from the portion of previously issued shares accounted for as excess of par value in the common stock account in accordance with the Japanese Commercial Code. However, as a result of the amendments to the Japanese Commercial Code in 2001 where the concept of par-value of shares was eliminated effective from October 1, 2001, a free distribution of common stock to its shareholders is accounted for with no accounting entry. Under the Japanese Commercial Code, a stock dividend which is paid out of profits can be effected by an appropriation of retained earnings to the common stock account by resolution of the general shareholders' meeting, followed by a free distribution with respect to the amount as appropriated by resolution of the Board of Directors.

Common stock issue costs

Common stock issue costs are directly charged to retained earnings, net of tax, in the accompanying consolidated financial statements as the Japanese Commercial Code prohibits charging such stock issue costs to capital accounts, which is the prevailing practice in the United States of America.

Comprehensive income

Other comprehensive income refers to revenues, expenses, gains and losses that under U.S. GAAP are included in comprehensive income but are excluded from net income as these amounts are recorded directly as adjustments to shareholders' equity. The Company's other comprehensive income primarily comprises unrealized gains or losses on debt and equity securities and foreign currency translation adjustments.

Market and credit risks

The anti-virus software market is characterized by rapid technological change and evolving industry standards in computer hardware and software technology. In addition, the markets for the Company's products are highly competitive and rapidly changing. The Company could incur substantial operating losses if it is unable to offer products, which address technological and market place change in the anti-virus software industry.

Other financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to significant concentrations of credit risk consist principally of cash equivalents, marketable securities and accounts receivable. The Company invests primarily in time deposits, money market funds and marketable securities and places its investments with high quality financial institutions. The Company performs ongoing credit evaluations of its customers' financial condition and maintains an allowance for uncollectible accounts receivable, if any, based upon the expected collectibility of accounts receivable.

Reclassification

Previously, the Company has disclosed all of its available for sale debt securities as Marketable securities in current assets. However, since the balance of cash and cash equivalents has increased, in fiscal 2004, the possibility of sales before maturity of its available for sale debt securities classified into working capital has decreased. Therefore, from fiscal 2004, the Company discloses its available for sale debt securities which maturity are later than one year as Securities investments in investments and other assets.

Fiscal 2003 balance sheet has been prepared on a consistent basis for reference. As a result, its available for sale debt securities of (Yen) 5,483,094 thousand is reclassified from current assets to investments and other assets. In addition, related deferred taxes of (Yen) 2,522 thousand are reclassified from current liabilities to long-term liabilities.

Based on the Company's incentive plans, the parent company issued unsecured bonds with detachable warrants and bought all of the warrants at the same time for the purpose of distributing such instruments to the directors and certain employees of the parent company and its subsidiaries as a part of their remuneration.

The Japanese Commercial Code restricts redemptions and extinguishments of these bonds in case the amount of each outstanding bond is less than the aggregate amount of exercise price of each outstanding warrant. Therefore, in order to reduce interest costs, the parent company repurchased a part of the bonds through market with an intention to hold the treasury bonds until they can be extinguished legally. However, as the repurchase transaction is deemed as redemption of the bonds in substance, the treasury bonds are offset with the bonds on the face of consolidated balance sheets. There was no repurchase transaction for the year ended December 31, 2003 and 2004. (Yen) 12,500,000 thousand of the bonds was redeemed during the year ended December 31, 2004.
