NNN Leases Minimize Landlord's Expense Exposure Annual rent increases and reimbursed expenses minimize inflation risk Consistent cash flows Yields are higher than comparable bonds of tenants and residual value of the asset adds benefit Most net leased properties are 100% occupied by a single tenant, generating full utilization of the asset Net leased ("NNN") properties are real estate assets with leases stipulating the tenant pays rent and all operating expenses, thus minimizing expense exposure for the landlord. Appendix

Funds From Operations Funds from operations (“FFO”), as defined by The National Association of Real Estate Investment Trusts (NAREIT), is calculated to be equal to net income (loss) applicable to common shareholders, as defined by U.S. GAAP, excluding extraordinary items as defined by U.S. GAAP, gains or losses from sales of previously depreciated real estate assets, impairment charges related to depreciable real estate assets, plus certain non-cash items such as real estate asset depreciation and amortization. FFO should be considered as a supplemental measure of operating performance used by REITs. The Company believes that FFO is helpful to investors as one of several measures of the performance of a REIT. FFO excludes historical cost depreciation as an expense and may facilitate the comparison of REITs which have different cost bases. The items excluded from FFO are significant components in understanding the Company’s financial performance. FFO (i) does not represent cash flow from operations as defined by generally accepted accounting principles; (ii) should not be considered as an alternative to net income a measure of operating performance or to cash flows from operating, investing and financing activities; and (iii) is not an alternative to cash flow as a measure of liquidity. FFO, as calculated by the Company, may not be comparable to similarly entitled measures reported by other REITs.

EBITDA Investors and analysts utilize earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortization (“EBITDA”) as a supplemental measure for assessing and evaluating operating performance. While we believe net income available to common stockholders, as defined by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (U.S. GAAP), is the most appropriate measure, we consider EBITDA, given its wide use by and relevance to investors and analysts, an appropriate supplemental performance measure. As a liquidity measure, EBITDA provides a tool to further evaluate the ability to incur and service debt and to fund dividends (common and preferred) and other cash needs. In addition, EBITDA is commonly used in various ratios, pricing multiples, yields and returns and valuation calculations used to measure financial position, performance and value. EBITDA does not represent net income or cash flow provided from operating activities as determined in accordance with U.S. GAAP and should not be considered as alternative measures of profitability or liquidity. Additionally, EBITDA as calculated by us may not be comparable to similar titled measures of other companies. We define EBITDA as net income (loss) plus: (i) interest expense; (ii) taxes; (iii) depreciation & amortization; (iv) Series C preferred stock distributions; (v) impairment charges; and less: (i) gain on extinguishment of debt; (ii) gain on sale of real estate; and (iii) prepayment fee income.
