AMR REPORTS SECOND QUARTER LOSS OF $465 MILLION BEFORE A SPECIAL ITEM

FORT WORTH, Texas - AMR Corporation, the parent company of American Airlines, Inc., today reported a second quarter net loss of $465 million before a special item, or $3.00 per share. This compares with a net loss of $105 million before special items, or $0.68 per share, in the second quarter of 2001.

"We continued to see a very weak revenue environment in the second quarter," said Don Carty, AMR's chairman and chief executive officer, "and although traffic has rebounded nicely since last fall, average fares are at 15-year lows, sharply depressing yields."

In response, the Company has taken a number of steps, including trimming capacity, sharply reducing capital spending and lowering its operating costs. These actions resulted in AMR's unit cost rising less than one percent year over year, despite 10.4 percent less capacity.

"We've made good progress on the cost side," Carty said, "and we're not done. The Company is in the midst of an exhaustive, top-to-bottom review of its business, and despite our financial challenges, our employees are doing an outstanding job of focusing on our customers and providing great service."

One result of all this effort, Carty said, is that during the second quarter, American completed more than 99 percent of its scheduled flights, and more than 82 percent of American's flights arrived on time, as reported to the Department of Transportation.

AMR's second quarter results include a $30 million after-tax special charge ($0.19 per share) that stems from a provision of Congress' economic stimulus package that changes the period for carrybacks of net operating losses ("NOLs"). This change allows companies to carry back 2001 and 2002 NOLs for five years, rather than two under the previous law, allowing AMR to more quickly recover its NOLs and thereby achieve a significant cash benefit. The extended NOL carryback does, however, result in the displacement of foreign tax credits taken in prior years which are now expected to expire before they can be used. As a result, the Company recorded a charge to reflect the anticipated forfeiture of the foreign tax credits.

Including this special item, AMR reported a second quarter net loss of $495 million, or $3.19 per share.

Looking forward, if the revenue environment remains depressed, the Company expects to post a sizeable operating loss in the third quarter. In addition, the Company has determined that its goodwill is likely impaired as defined by the Financial Accounting Standard Board's recent Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 142 on accounting for "Goodwill and Other Intangible Assets." If so, AMR will record an impairment charge in the third or fourth quarter. The amount of this non-cash charge has not yet been determined, but could be up to $1.4 billion pre-tax, the full amount of AMR's goodwill.

Editor's Note: AMR's Chief Financial Officer, Jeff Campbell, will make a presentation to analysts during a teleconference on Wednesday, July 17, from 2 p.m. to 2:45 p.m. EDT. Following the analyst call, he will hold a question and answer conference call for media from 3 p.m. to 3:45 p.m. EDT. Reporters interested in listening to Mr. Campbell's presentation or participating in the media Q&A conference call should call 817-967-1577 for details.

Statements in this report contain various forward-looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended, which represent the Company's expectations or beliefs concerning future events. When used in this document and in documents incorporated herein by reference, the words "expects," "plans," "anticipates," "believes," and similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements.
