Item 1.01 Entry Into a Material Definitive Agreement.

On November 12, 2007, the Board of Directors of Halozyme Therapeutics, Inc. (the Company), amended the Rights Agreement previously adopted on May 4, 2006 (the Rights Agreement) in order to increase the ownership threshold for triggering the stockholder rights granted pursuant to the Rights Agreement from a fifteen percent (15%) ownership interest to a twenty percent (20%) ownership interest.

The Rights Agreement is intended as a means to guard against any potential use of takeover tactics designed to gain control of Halozyme without paying all stockholders full and fair value. Under the Rights Agreement, certain stockholder rights will become exercisable if a stockholder (defined as an Acquiring Person in the Rights Agreement) acquires a certain percentage of the Company's outstanding shares without first obtaining the prior approval of the Company's Board of Directors. The applicable threshold for an Acquiring Person to trigger these stockholder rights was initially fifteen percent (15%), however that triggering threshold was increased to twenty percent (20%) through the amendment adopted on November 12, 2007.

The Rights Agreement was also amended to replace all references to the American Stock Exchange with references to NASDAQ.
