In a report filed on November 16, 2004, Exelon Corporation (Exelon) announced a proposal to make contributions of approximately $2 billion in 2005 to Exelon's defined benefit pension plans in order to eliminate the under-funded status of those plans. Exelon's Board of Directors subsequently approved that proposal on December 7, 2004.

On March 7, 2005, Exelon entered into a $2 billion term loan agreement with Citicorp North America, Inc., the proceeds from which are intended to finance the pension funding announced in 2004. The agreement requires a commitment fee payable by Exelon on the last day of each calendar quarter and on the date on which the commitments to lend under the agreement are reduced to zero and carries interest at a variable rate determined, at Exelon's option, by either the Base Rate or the Eurodollar Rate (as defined in the bridge loan agreement). Lending commitments under the agreement terminate on the earlier of September 16, 2005 or the date of the third draw down on the agreement and the loan amount outstanding is due in full on December 1, 2005. Exelon expects to repay the amount outstanding primarily with the proceeds from long-term debt financing that Exelon expects will be issued later this year.

Exelon expects to draw approximately $1.2 billion on the term loan agreement on March 10, 2005, and will immediately contribute that amount to Exelon's defined benefit pension plans. Additional draws of $800 million are expected to be made later in 2005 to fund additional contributions to the pension plans.

The term loan agreement is attached to this report as Exhibit 99.
