For Immediate Release

NTT DoCoMo to Celebrate 10th Anniversary

TOKYO, JAPAN, April 24, 2002 NTT DoCoMo, Inc. and its eight regional companies announced today that they will commemorate the tenth anniversary of DoCoMo's business launch by offering special discounts for a limited period, a 500 yen commemorative dividend and a variety of philanthropic and other civic-minded activities (please see attachment).

In commemorating the business launch in July 1992, DoCoMo intends to express its deep appreciation for the enthusiastic acceptance of its value-added mobile communications services. These include the i-mode® wireless internet service introduced in February 1999, which has reinvented the cellular phone industry by creating a huge market for mobile multimedia services, and the FOMA® service launched in May last year as the world's first 3G mobile communications service based on W-CDMA technology. As a result of the great popularity of these and other DoCoMo services, the company currently has a subscriber base of more than 40 million customers, an approximate 40-fold increase over the past 10 years.

Please see the attachments for details about the commemorative activities.

Civic-Minded Programs

1. Education

DoCoMo will begin soliciting research papers and articles on the subject of communication from July 2002 with the goal of contributing to the development of Japan's mobile communications industry. The topics will include advanced technology, fundamental science and social science. Prize money will be awarded to the winning entries.

2. Social Welfare

DoCoMo will contribute resources to welfare organizations (social welfare groups, organizations for the handicapped, etc.) from October 2002 with the goal of helping to raise the level of affluence in regional areas of Japan.

3. International
Activities

To support friendly relations with countries of Asia and other regions, DoCoMo will provide non-scholarship students from these areas with financial assistance to support their academic and professional success. Applications will be accepted from October 2002.

4. Expansion of DoCoMo Woods Program

Since May 1999, the NTT DoCoMo Group has carried out DoCoMo Woods environmental protection activities in various regions of the nation. The 6th such event will be held this April in Mie Prefecture. In addition, DoCoMo will expand DoCoMo Woods in the Kanto and Koushinetsu regions (Tokyo and nine prefectures) from September to October 2002.

Interaction with Customers

1. Solicitation of Works for Planned DoCoMo Museum of the Future (tentative name)

Drawings and essays on the theme of future society will be accepted from elementary and middle school students to stimulate the creativity and unlimited potential of young students, the future architects of the 21st century. DoCoMo will provide winning entrants with prizes to express its appreciation and to encourage them to continue striving to realize their dreams. Works are expected to be accepted from July to mid-September 2002.

2. Future of Mobile Life Survey

Average citizens and celebrities will be surveyed online from the end of May to the end of July 2002 regarding issues such as population aging, internationalization and communication. The results, which will be made public, will serve as useful data for the development of new mobile products and services.

3. Send It With Love : i-mode Email Contest

DoCoMo will conduct a contest featuring heartwarming email (and related episodes) sent/received between July and August 2002. Entries will be judged in sent and received categories. The objective is both to promote email culture and to help more people become more aware of the joy of using email and its remarkable capacity as a new mode of communication. ( i of i-mode is a play on words because ai also pronounced i means love in Japanese.)

4. M-stage® Video Contest

Video content for mobile phones is being accepted for the Mobile Movie Creatives Festival 2002 with the goal of stimulating the mobile video industry. The contest started on March 1 and will last until noon of May 19, 2002. The winning entrants will be invited to an awards event in early July, where they are scheduled to receive prize money and meet with judges and M-stage official content providers.

Other Projects

1. Electronic Library

DoCoMo will establish an electronic library to house socially and culturally significant electronic documents. Electronic information based on the themes of mobile communication and preservation of Japanese culture will be available at the library, which can be accessed via DoCoMo's website. Construction will be completed in July 2002.

2. Commemorative Clock for DoCoMo Yoyogi Building Exterior

To mark DoCoMo's 10-year anniversary, a large clock will be erected on the distinctive DoCoMo Yoyogi Building to help make the building a well-loved landmark. The round clock will be 150 meters above ground and 17 meters in diameter. In addition, at night the upper part of the building will light up with a colorful display forecasting the weather. Construction will be concluded in September 2002.

The uniquely designed DoCoMo Yoyogi Building with a microwave antenna built into its upper portion was completed in October 2000 with consideration paid to the surrounding area and view.

3. Drama-style Ad Campaign featuring a Mobile Family (ongoing)

DoCoMo is producing a popular series of TV commercials in the style of a TV drama to depict how family members living apart use their mobile phones to stay connected and communicate warmly with each other. New faces will be added to the series, in addition to currently featured entertainers including Masakazu Tamura, Midori Kiuchi, Kyouka Suzuki, Kenji Sakaguchi, Ai Kato, Shin Takuma, Masanori Ishii and Katsuo Nakamura. The ads are being aired during the six-month period from February to July 2002.
