Employment Contracts and Termination of Employment and

Change-In-Control Arrangements

Severance/change-in-control agreements have been entered into with Messrs. Sisto, Gibbs, Francis and Eades in order to assure the Company of the continued services of those executives to the Company in an effective manner without distraction by reason of the possibility of a termination of employment by the Company or a change in control of the Company. The agreements for Mr. Sisto and Mr. Gibbs provide that in the event of the termination of their employment by the Company, for any reason other than termination for cause, death, disability or a change-in-control, the Company will continue to pay them for an initial severance period of one year following such termination. The agreement with Mr. Francis and Mr. Eades provides that the Company will continue to pay them for an initial severance period of six months following termination.

Edgar Filing: PHOENIX TECHNOLOGIES LTD - Form 10-K/A

The severance amount is equal to the executive's salary at the annual rate then in effect. The agreement with Mr. Gibbs provides that if he has not been re-employed at the end of the initial severance period, he may receive up to six months additional severance at the same rate. The agreements with Mr. Francis and Mr. Eades do not provide for any payment after the initial severance period, and the agreement with Mr. Sisto provides that he may receive up to one year of additional severance at the same rate. The additional severance for Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Sisto will cease when the executive is re-employed. In addition, the Company will provide the executive with his or her then current health, dental, life and accidental death and dismemberment insurance benefits for a period of 18 months following such termination. Each agreement also contains a covenant not-to-compete and a covenant not to solicit employees of the Company during the one-year period in which severance benefits are being paid and for six months thereafter.

In the event of the termination of the executive's employment following a change-in-control of the Company, and such termination is (i) by the Company for any reason other than termination for cause or (ii) by the executive for constructive discharge, the Company will pay the executive severance and benefits as summarized above. In addition, 50 percent of the executive's stock option grants will vest immediately upon termination and the balance will vest within 90 days after the termination date.

If any of the payments to the affected executive are considered excess parachute payments as defined in Section 280G of the Internal Revenue Code, the payments will be reduced to avoid such a characterization.

Compensation Committee Interlocks and Insider Participation

The members of the Compensation Committee of the Company's Board of Directors during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2003 were Taher Elgamal, Anthony P. Morris and Anthony Sun, each of whom is independent, as such term is defined in the NASD Rules. No member of the Compensation Committee or executive officer of the Company has a relationship that would constitute an interlocking relationship with executive officers or directors of another entity.

Report of the Compensation Committee

The Compensation Committee of the Board (the Compensation Committee) has responsibility for setting and administering the policies that govern executive compensation for all executive officers of the Company. The Compensation Committee is composed entirely of independent directors and reports its actions to the full Board. The purpose of this report is to summarize the philosophical principles, specific program objectives and other factors considered by the Compensation Committee in reaching its determinations regarding the compensation of the Company's executive officers.

General Compensation Philosophy

The Committee has approved principles for management compensation that will:

attract and retain key personnel who contribute to long-term success of the Company, encourage the development and achievement of strategic objectives that enhance stockholder value, promote the Company's corporate values, and provide a compensation package that recognizes individual contributions, group achievement, and Company performance.

Compensation Methodology

The Company strives to provide a comprehensive executive compensation program that is competitive and performance-based in order to attract and retain superior executive talent. When establishing salaries, bonus levels and stock option awards, the Compensation Committee reviews market data, assesses the Company's competitive position and considers: (1) the Company's financial performance during the past fiscal year, (2) the individual's performance during the past fiscal year, including the promotion and the maintenance of the Company's corporate values, (3) the compensation packages of executive officers in similar positions in companies of comparable size, same geographic region or within the computer software industry, and (4) the current economic climate. With respect to executive officers other than the CEO, the Compensation Committee places considerable weight upon the recommendation of the CEO. Consideration is also given to particular objectives that the CEO or the Board wishes the executive to focus on in the coming year.

Components of Compensation

Base Salary. Base salaries for all executive officer positions are targeted to be competitive with the average salaries of comparable executives at technology companies of similar size and are intended to reflect consideration of an officer's experience, business judgment and role in developing and implementing overall business strategy for the Company.

Bonuses. Bonuses for executive officers are intended to reflect the Company's belief that a significant portion of the annual compensation of the executive should be contingent upon the performance of the Company, as well as the individual's contribution and the achievements of the executive's group, division or business unit. In evaluating the Company's performance, consideration is also given to current economic conditions. Earned bonuses are paid on an annual or quarterly basis and are based on qualitative and subjective factors, including the pre-tax profitability of the Company, business development, operational performance, earnings per share and other measures of performance appropriate to the individual executive officer.

Long Term Incentives. Long term incentive-based compensation for executive officers is realized through the granting of stock options. The stock option program directly links a portion of compensation to the interests of stockholders by providing an incentive to maximize stockholder value. Stock options generally have value for the executive only if the price of the Company's stock increases above the fair market value on the grant date and the executive remains in the Company's employ for the period required for the shares to vest. In addition, executive officers may also be granted an incentive bonus related to growth in revenue and earnings per share as well as satisfaction of individualized performance objectives.

Compensation of Chief Executive Officer During Fiscal 2003

Compensation for the Company's Chief Executive Officer is determined through a process similar to that discussed above for executive officers in general. This pay-for-performance program is most clearly exemplified in the compensation of the Company's Chief Executive Officer. The compensation program for the Chief Executive Officer is designed to reward achievement of corporate financial goals and individual performance objectives as well as other strategic objectives, and provides the basis for the compensation program for all executives.

In setting compensation levels for the Chief Executive Officer, the Compensation Committee reviewed competitive information reflecting the relevant compensation data for chief executive officers of companies of comparable size within the software industry. Mr. Sisto's compensation level was determined using generally the same considerations described above. Based on its analysis, the Compensation Committee determined not to award Mr. Sisto any increase in base salary during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2003, but did award Mr. Sisto a bonus in the amount of $37,800 during the fiscal year ended September 30, 2003.

Tax Deductibility of Executive Compensation

As a matter of policy, the Compensation Committee believes it is important to retain the flexibility to maximize the Company's tax deductions. Amendments to Section 162(m) of the Internal Revenue Code have eliminated the deductibility of most compensation over a million dollars in any given year. It is the policy of the Compensation Committee to consider the impact, if any, of Section 162(m) on the Company and to document as necessary specific performance goals to seek to preserve the Company's tax deductions.
