CB&I Team:

I'm extremely proud to be able to reach out and connect with the employees of CB&I. I've been the CEO of McDermott for just over four years now, and I know firsthand that a company's success is directly tied to its employees. While management teams often set the strategy, employees turn the strategy into action and truly make the company a success.

For my first message, I would like to spend some time telling you a little about McDermott, our employees and touch on the complementary nature of our two businesses.

As you know, we are planning to combine our two great companies and create one of the largest vertically integrated organizations in our industry. I'm very excited about the opportunities that lie ahead and the many ways we will be better together.

Like CB&I, McDermott has a long and rich legacy in the energy industry. For nearly a century, we've been a leader in the upstream offshore business delivering fixed and floating production facilities, pipelines and subsea systems. More recently, the company has evolved its business into the deep-water market leading the Ichthys project, one of the largest, most complex subsea projects in the world.

Today, we are a leading provider of Front-end Engineering Design (FEED), engineering, procurement, construction and installation (EPCI) and module fabrication services for complex upstream offshore developments worldwide. Our customer mix includes most of the world's largest National Oil Companies, as well as many of the major and independent Exploration & Production companies in the energy industry.

While headquartered in the Houston area, we have engineering centers of excellence and world-class fabrication facilities strategically located around the globe to support projects in the 20-plus countries in which we operate. We have more than 15,000 direct and contract employees across the globe with large fabrication yards in the UAE, Indonesia and Mexico. We also own and operate 12 marine construction vessels, several engineering centers of excellence and most recently opened our first Digital Innovation Center in Pune, India.

Additionally, we are leading the offshore EPCI industry with an innovative digital lifecycle management solution. This first-of-its-kind in delivery and asset management is beginning to get a lot of attention from our customers and we are excited about the opportunities that lie ahead.

One of the things I'm most proud of at McDermott is our employees' unwavering commitment to the success of the company. As a result, we have been able to bid and win new projects, deliver customer value and grow our company quite substantially for the past four years. Our strong customer-focused culture has positioned us to succeed, despite the recent industry downturn, and has enabled us to transform our business.

Regarding our culture, I think you'll find that the people of McDermott share similar values with CB&I. Like you, we value safety, innovation and putting our customers first. We are a service-oriented company that focuses on relationships, quality and project delivery.

We are proud of what we have accomplished and where we are today but we believe that we will be even better together.

McDermott's offshore capabilities combined with CB&I's onshore expertise and technology gives us a platform to drive growth and expand into new regions.

With a renewed focus on technology and innovation, we plan to combine the best of both companies to provide increased value to our customers. With the combination of our capabilities, technology, the diversification of our offering and the scale of our new organization, I'm confident we will be the leader in providing world-class end-to-end solutions to our customers in this highly competitive market.

We are already working together to begin the important planning process to integrate our businesses and create the foundation for the future. I have confidence in this team and look forward to everyone's collaboration and support in making this integration planning process a huge success.

Again, I'm excited about our future together and hope you are too. I look forward to meeting many of you in the coming months.

David
