EXHIBIT 99.1

DUPONT UPDATES PLANS UNDER AMERICAN JOBS CREATION ACT,
THE IMPACTS OF HURRICANES KATRINA AND RITA,
AND AFFIRMS CONFIDENCE IN FIRST CALL CONSENSUS

WILMINGTON, Del., Oct. 13, 2005 -- DuPont today confirmed it will repatriate approximately $9.4 billion by year-end under the American Jobs Creation Act. The company also addressed the status of its 14 manufacturing plants that were in the paths of Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, as well as the financial impact associated with the storms.

American Jobs Creation Act (AJCA)

Edgar Filing: DUPONT E I DE NEMOURS & CO - Form 8-K

The company confirmed it is taking actions to repatriate approximately $9.4 billion of cash under AJCA before year-end. An accrual for the associated taxes of approximately $.32 per share will be recorded in third quarter results.

Hurricane Katrina

Five of the company's operating sites were in the path of Hurricane Katrina. Three had minimal damage and have resumed operations -- Burnside, La., Pontchartrain, La., and Mobile, Ala. No significant structural damage occurred at the two remaining sites -- DeLisle, Miss., and Pascagoula, Miss. However, electrical systems, instrument controls and computer-based electronic process control systems received extensive damage.

On August 31, force majeure was declared for the businesses operating these two sites. The company's current assessment is that the Pascagoula aniline facility will restart by the end of November and the DeLisle titanium dioxide plant will begin operations by the end of December.

Hurricane Rita

The company also said that, of the nine DuPont manufacturing sites in the path of Hurricane Rita, seven incurred little or no damage and have resumed operations. Two -- Sabine and Beaumont, Tex. -- were more seriously damaged, but both are structurally sound and environmentally secure. Force majeure was declared on September 27 for ethylene copolymers at Sabine and on September 28 for the aniline and acrylonitrile businesses at Beaumont. Both sites are now in the process of a phased restart.

Hurricane-Related Costs

The company expects to record estimated costs of $150 million or $.10 per share in the third quarter associated with the clean-up, restoration of manufacturing operations, lost inventory and humanitarian assistance. In addition, the company estimates it will need to make capital investments of approximately $115 million to restore or replace damaged equipment.

The company carries property damage and business interruption insurance, subject to deductible amounts. DuPont said it is too early to estimate the amount and timing of an insurance recovery but indicated that none is expected this year.

"Our first priority was the safety of our employees, their families and the impacted communities," said Senior Vice President and Chief Financial Officer Gary M. Pfeiffer. "We are deeply relieved that all 3,700 of our employees in the Gulf region are accounted for and are safe. We are now focused on returning our operations and businesses to full strength."

Third Quarter Update

The company continues to assess the business interruption and indirect costs associated with Hurricanes Katrina and Rita, including the inability to supply customers due to temporary plant and electricity outages, as well as broader impacts from dramatically higher energy and ingredient costs, higher transportation costs, and disruptions to the operations of its customers and suppliers. The company expects that these associated effects will continue in varying degrees into 2006. However, based on preliminary estimates, the company said it expects third quarter 2005 earnings per share to be in line with the current First Call earnings estimate consensus of $.29 per share, excluding the estimated $.42 in charges discussed above.

DuPont will provide an update of the expected impact on fourth quarter results during its upcoming conference call scheduled for Oct. 25, 2005, at 11:00 a.m. (EDT).
