Notice of Redemption – Immediate Action Required to Avoid Return of Your Investment

Dear GE Interest Plus Investor,

This notice contains important information concerning your investment in GE Interest Plus and how to avoid an interruption of our services to you. GE Interest Plus Notes (the Notes) are subject to optional redemption by General Electric Capital Corporation (GE Capital) upon at least 30 days notice. GE Capital is hereby providing you written notice that your Notes will be redeemed in full on April 24, 2009 (the Redemption Date) and that on and after the Redemption Date, interest on the redeemed Notes will cease to accrue.

Unless we receive written notice from you as described below under How to Keep Your Funds in GE Interest Plus by April 23, 2009, the principal amount of your investment in the Notes will be returned to you, together with unpaid interest thereon to, but not including, the Redemption Date, less any tax withholding. Any such payment will be made by check mailed on the Redemption Date to you at your address as it appears on our records. If your funds are so returned, they will not be available to pay checks or other redemption orders received on or after the Redemption Date.

We are redeeming your Notes in order to remove a restrictive covenant applicable to investments in Notes that were made prior to August 15, 1996. This covenant limits the ability of GE Capital and certain subsidiaries to pledge property or assets to secure debt without equally and ratably securing Notes issued prior to August 15, 1996. As more than 98% of the outstanding principal amount of the Notes do not have the benefit of this covenant, our action will put all our investors on equal footing.

How To Keep Your Funds in GE Interest Plus:

Reinvesting will keep your account and its features in place and allow your funds to continue to earn interest without interruption. By returning the attached form before April 23, 2009, the amount of principal of your redeemed Notes, together with unpaid interest thereon to, but not including, the Redemption Date, will be immediately reinvested in Notes on the Redemption Date. These new Notes will not have the benefit of the restrictive covenant referred to above. Your investment in new Notes will earn interest at the current interest rate beginning on the Redemption Date so that you will not lose even a day's interest as a result of redemption and reinvestment. The account number for your new Notes will not change and your checks and all facilities that you have established with respect to your account such as Wire Redemption, Quick Transactions, and Payroll Deduction will remain effective.

For your convenience, we have enclosed a postage-paid, self-addressed envelope. Please use this envelope to return the form to us right away to avoid any disruption in our service to you. If you have any questions about this transaction or your GE Interest Plus account, you may contact representatives dedicated to this effort toll-free in the U.S. at 1-888-433-3573. Representatives are available to assist you Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Eastern Time.

Sincerely,
GE Interest Plus
